

Dear ALL!

As I have done over the years, once again I'd like to share with you an opportunity for any of your players to further improve themselves with regards to football.

Peter Katholos was certainly one of the more creative and technically astute players ever to play for Australia and now he is giving something back of value, to the game he is so passionate about.

My son, Panos, has worked with Peter as well and I can say, it is not just the technical and skills side of the game that Peter brings to the table.

As a classic Number 10, Peter brings immense and in-depth knowledge of what it takes to be creative, to have great vision and to solve problems on and off the field.

If any one of you are going to commit to helping further the football development and education of your children, I would seriously consider taking your child to the academy he has started.

Please feel free to forward to anybody else whom you believe it will benefit.

Best Regards
John Armenakas
